

Young Women Discuss Topics of Interest; More Than One Hundred Names To Pick Choice

WHO WILL WIN, FAVORITES PRE- FERRED BUT NOT DISCUSSABLE

Four Leaders Are Close Together For Chape- rone Honors Which Goes To Highest Vote Cast

FAVORITES, BALLOTS, and the PROBABLE WINNER of the Bulletin popularity contest have equally been topics for discussion among the contestants and their friends the few days which have elapsed since the announcement of the names of the contestants. These topics are non-discussable. There is nothing to discuss about either one, and only conjecture can go to make up the padding of conversation about them. The Bulletin has in previous issues bearing on this contest explained this.

Taking them consecutively, "favorites" come first. There are no favorites of the Bulletin in this contest. That has been amply proven in contests in the past. The contestant who works the hardest and obtains the best result is the one who will be the favorite. But she will not be known until the last vote is counted by the contest man and the disinterested judges have passed on the count and decided the winner. In the contest man the contestants will find a Sphinx to whom they may tell their secrets and from whom they will not be able to drag the secrets of the other contestants against whom they are working. He will hold your votes for you, and when you tell him you would like to know the ballots of the other contestants, he will smile, and you will know nothing more than you did before you asked.

There will be no favorites. Ballots! You ask yourself, if you are a contestant, just how many ballots it will take to win the contest. You will not know, any more than you know the name of the winner, until the judges have passed upon the vote. The number of the ballots you will hold will not count so much as will its ratio to the number of ballots your opponent in the contest will hold. It would not make any difference to the Bulletin in a contest of this nature how many votes were allowed in the coupons, or whether two votes or 2000 were allowed for a year's subscription. It is one thing sure that all the contestants will have the same opportunity for ballots, and that one coupon means the same to one as to the other. It is this that makes the contest, not the number of votes each ballot counts, unless it be to strike the fancy with the sound of a number into the millions, which will not represent any more work than a number down in the thousands obtained on the low-ballot count scale.

THAT PROBABLE WINNER! Who, then, do you think will be the winner of the contest? At this stage of the game no contestant should have a thought other than that she will be the winner. It is not good for your ability that you believe your opponent the winner of the prize for which you yourself are striving. It does not get you that amount of energy and hope which you wish to utilize in ballot-getting and which you must have if you are the winner. Of course, the winner is unknown. And the winner is as unknown to the Bulletin as to any of the contestants. It is the girl who has the most success in the field and who brings in the largest number of votes. But her identity will be hidden until the last counting of the ballots.

Watch These Popular People The Bulletin contest is marked by the large number of people entered. Every day it is possible to call attention to a new lot of popular contestants because when all are popular and there are so many of them it is an easy matter to select the daily list for comment and explanation.

Short Contest The contest is of short duration and will close some time about the middle of March. The exact date will be decided upon in a few days. This will be the shortest contest the Bulletin has ever conducted and is made short, in order that the work will not become tiresome to the contestants.

Contestants are not limited to the district in which they are entered, but are allowed to secure votes from any other District, County or State.

Each contestant should commence to but have them pay you on your first day to ask their friends for support and tell them to help you now and not stand you off with promises of support, as it will be hard for you to call on them again. Each contestant is furnished with receipt books and those who have not secured a book as yet should call on the Contest Manager and secure one and have your friends pay your subscription and you bring the money to the office, and the ballots will be issued to you in person; don't depend on your friends to come to the office and pay

How To Vote

Subscribers who depend on the mails to bring their subscriptions to the Bulletin office, must always state whom they want their votes cast for, always mention the contestant's name and whether you want the votes published at once or returned to the contestant. It is best to return all ballots to the contestant and she will then know who is voting for her and can keep track of her friends who have voted, and then will have more time to call on those who have not paid their subscription and in this way she can make a thorough canvass of all her friends, and it will make the work much easier for her. Send your subscription direct to the Contest Department and the votes will be issued for the one you state and they will be returned to the contestant with your name on it, and she can hold the ballots back until the close of the contest, but ballots will not be issued unless the contestant's name appears on same, which makes it a safe-guard against all combinations, which often arise in contests of this nature and makes it absolutely fair for the contestant, as no contestant can then withdraw from the race and transfer her votes to someone else.

Subscription Blanks Candidates should call on the Contest Manager at once and secure subscription books, and there are a number of things he would like to tell you, in regard to the best way of securing votes. Call at once at the Bulletin office.

PROMISING POLO PONIES COME ON THE VIRGINIAN

THE FIFTH CAVALRY OFFICERS BRING LIVELY ANIMALS

Royal Game Is Likely To Receive Big Boost Here Owing To Presence of the Crack Military Team—Practice Will Begin Soon

Polo in the Islands is likely to sustain a big boost. Fifteen of the liveliest ponies ever seen here were brought in this morning by the American-Hawaiian steamer Virginian, and as soon as the troops are located at Lihue the officers will begin organizing a team.

The regiment has been so scattered during the past few years that it has been impossible to organize a strong team, and, though some excellent players are numbered among the younger officers of the two squadrons which will be located here, few of them have ever played together.

Most of the ponies which the Fifth Cavalry has brought are green animals, with little or no schooling. They were all selected by good judges however, and all give promise of making excellent mounts for players.

It is probable that, as soon as the troops are settled at Lihue and the officers have a little leisure on their hands the work of schooling the ponies will begin. Then practice will begin, and, before long, a crack team will undoubtedly be organized from among the wearers of the yellow shoulder straps.

With a bang-up team right here on the island as a competitor, local polo enthusiasts will have some inducement to get out and practice, and there will doubtless be a wild scurry for likely ponies during the next few weeks. The result will be some matches such as will fill the heart of the polo fan with joy.

CHASING LIZA.

"Aw," boasted the English nobleman, in the smoking room of the big steamer, "my father followed the hounds for years."

"So did mine," laughed the little man in the checkered cap.

"Aw, in England?"

"No, in America. He used to play the part of Simon Legree in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin'."

GREAT BLESSING.

Mrs. Green—"The Browns on the third floor are up to date. They have a go-cart that can shut up."

Mr. Green—"Oh, but the Smythes on the second floor have that beaten."

Mrs. Green—"In what way?"

Mr. Green—"Why, they have a baby that can shut up."

ECLIPSED.

Gunner—"Fogg certainly loves his wife. He actually wears the neckties she makes him."

Guy—"Yes, but Harker goes that one better."

Gunner—"Yes?"

Guy—"I should say so. He wears the red mittens his wife knitted."
